A role model for every manager: Anu Talati from India!

Posted: 03 Jul 2008 12:53 AM CDT

Not many people have climbed the ladder of career and success with ETL quite like Anu – from a Client Servicing Manager in an advertising agency before she became a full-time Marketing in ten years! Anu worked as Client Servicing Manager in an advertising agency before she became a full-time Marketing in ten years. When her son was six years.

When she was offered the opportunity by her sales consultant, she was quite skeptic. But she soon became very successful with her personal experience with the products. And then there was no looking back.

As her children grew older, she was able to give more and more time to her job. Within a couple of years, she was promoted as the Branch Manager for Bangalore due to her excellent leadership – and Bangalore since. Due to her excellent track record, she was promoted as the Regional Manager South (looking after five branches) and the management of India in 2002. Over the next five years, Anu grew from Regional Manager to National Sales Manager for ETL Marketing.

One of Anu's biggest strength is building people – she has a team of 45 managers across India! Sales have grown and continues to grow! Anyone would envy her lifestyle, and her work-home balance is an example for any successful manager. She attributes her success to “a passion for the opportunity and products, complete focus on goals, building people and a SUV. She attributes her success to “a passion for the opportunity and products, complete focus on goals, building people and a SUV.

Regardless of where you are, and what position you hold today, you can also do what Anu has done: make the best of it.
